Pumula Lodge is in a quiet cul-de-sac in the town of Dubbo, approx 420 km north west of Sydney. The hostel, established in 1992 by the Dubbo Baptist Church, is administered by a Hostel Policy Board and managed by a Christian couple.

A modern, purpose-built residence, Pumula (meaning 'rest') is located adjacent to the Baptist Community Centre in a central position, within easy reach of the five Dubbo High Schools. It now caters for 20 students, both girls and boys, in Years 7 – 12.

Accommodation is in 2-bed and 4-bed rooms, each with an en-suite bathroom. Although compact in size, the hostel provides a comfortable environment for the students.

Students are encouraged to involve themselves in the sporting, social and cultural activities of the community.
