Nyangatjatjara College is situated at Yulara, the tourist village adjacent to Ayers Rock in Central Australia. The College is a community based and independent facility serving 3 closely related communities: Mutitjulu, Imanpa and Kaltukatjara (Docker River).

The central boarding campus is at Yulara, and there are also day campuses at each of the three feeder communities.

While the school is co-educational, it operates on a unique model. At the request of senior community members, students are gender segregated. While the boys are boarding at Yulara, the girls attend the day campuses at the communities, and vice versa. Students alternate between Yulara and their home campuses every term.

Community members believe this is the best way of delivering education to adolescents while minimising the risks inherent in their being away from home for long periods of time.

The four main areas of curriculum are: Literacy, Numeracy, Health and Social Education.
