Yirara College, a Christian boarding school for post-primary Aboriginal boys and girls from rural communities within central Australia, is situated on the outskirts of Alice Springs.

The campus contains both educational and boarding facilities, with the 180 students accommodated in 4 double-storey dormitory buildings. A Residential Supervisor is housed at each level. Professional catering services offer excellent meals in the huge communal dining-room.

Family and community meetings are held at Yirara. Parents and family members are involved in the Governing Council of the College, to ensure that aboriginal interests are preserved in all decision making. Yirara's Governing Council encourages active parental involvement.

Spacious grounds with a full range of sporting facilities are available, and a week-end social program is offered which includes films, swimming, horse-riding and other activities.
